A fire of undetermined cause raged for nearly four hours early Monday morning before being brought under control by volunteers and members of the Belle Glade Fire Department.

Total value of the loss ranged to $50,000.

Four trucks at the scene and about 3,000 feet of hose could not save four buildings at the northeast corner of Avenue C and 6th St.

More than 100 persons were homeless as the fire swept through 75 rooms, Lee Puckett's grocery and a beer and wine establishment, operated by Mabel Hatcher, according to Fire Chief L. E. Will.

Vernon Duncanson, disaster chairman for this area said the Red Cross has already spent more than $3,000 for clothing, bedding and cooking utensils for some 45 families who were made homeless.

The amount spent in this one disaster is nearly twice the total amount collected for the recent Red Cross drive.

Duncanson said the committee and the Red Cross will be standing by to give aid to the needy during future disasters of wind, fire and water.

The Pittsburgh, New York, which housed Puckett's nearby Philadelphia buildings were completely destroyed while the Savannah building was partially destroyed.

The latter two buildings were part of the Lawrence Schuler estate owned by Willie Miller and the two buildings on the corner of Ave. C and 6th Street were owned by Puckett.

The American Red Cross set up quarters at the scene early this week at the Fleming Beauty Salon, next door to the fire, and meals are being served at this week at the scene early.

Reverend G. E. Benson, is in charge.

The three totally destroyed buildings are valued at $29,180 while the partially damaged building was valued at $4,350.

Fire Chief Will said the value of the contents of the buildings stated that most of the families lost everything they owned.

The fire was discovered at about 2:45 a. m. Monday in the rear of the Hatcher residence by an unidentified negro man. Trucks were at the scene four (Continued on Page Five)

Main Street Building Will Be Replaced Soon

A face-lifting project on Main Street here is due to begin shortly after June 1 when the building now housing Dorsey's Barber Shop and the Western Union Telegraph Company is torn down and replaced with a new structure.

The building, owned by Attorney Robert Mathews, at 132-136-140 S. Main, will be fully replaced by the first of the month when the telephone office moves to 116 S. 3rd St. The barber shop moved to the Belle Glade Hotel early this week.

Mathews declined to describe the nature of the building to be built; however, it was understood that both businesses would probably return to the new building.

Across the street a new sidewalk is being laid by the city between Avenue A and Avenue B which will be only seven feet wide. This will, in effect, widen the street by about six feet.

JOB and WORKER

J. W. Mosley, Jr., Representative Florida State Employment Service

Not Too Late Yet - The column this week is devoted entirely to the graduating Juniors of the high schools in the Glades. Regardless of whether or not they have been good for the past three years, it's your year, it's your high school that spells the difference. Unfortunately, many seniors and juniors wait until after Christmas before they settle down to really study because they decide then that they are going to college. More of ten than not, it is too late by that time to bring their grades up.

Decision Is Indivisible - The time to start preparing for college is at the end of the junior year for the vast majority. The first time that has to be decided is whether you want, really want, to go to college. This does not involve finances, a choice of college, automobile, fraternities, sororities, meals or lodging. This is a decision you have to make for yourself.

Local Committee Knocks Federal School Aid Plan

Members of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce legislative action committee held its weekly breakfast meeting at the Belle Glade Coffee Shop Tuesday morning at 7:15 to discuss the topic of federal aid to education.

Dr. W. T. Forsee, Jr., chairman of the committee, presented the subject this week. Forsee began by stating that the question of federal aid to schools was a two part problem:

1. Should the Treasury collect taxes for redistribution to schools?
2. Could this be done without federal controls on our school system?

Forsee pointed out that many other federal programs have led to federal controls. The government is to state that proposals of the federal government have been exceeded by a considerable amount the needed amount to accommodate the increased enrollment on a nation-wide scale.

He further stated that any time a government service is present, it means taxation to support it and that means a load in everyone's tax burden. Our state and local governments are in better shape to handle the water problem, Forsee said, than the federal government.

Another point, Forsee explained, is that with a government subsidy some states will benefit from the taxes they didn't pay. Although Florida stands to receive just about what they put in while larger states such as New York and California will be paying the way of smaller states.

Forsee O. Earwood, Glades representative on the Palm Beach County School Board, interjected that the board is against federal aid because federal aid and/or control will hinder local jurisdiction and administration.

Dr. Forsee's conclusions were that the legislative action committee should oppose federal aid to schools until they can form their state representatives by telegram voicing their approval and disapproval of certain aims of the legislature.

Next week, Mrs. Rosa Nash is scheduled to present views concerning the postal deficit.

Let's Take A Look!

Belle Glade is "bustle" at its seams. We need new homes to take care of those who are now living in what is termed inadequate housing, and for many more who would move here.

We need housing for the over-flow from the coastal communities brought about through Great-Whitney and satellite manufacturers - whether we need 150 new homes or 250 depends on the terms on which they are offered to the buying public.

FHA and Veterans Administration requirements on sewerage disposal, the State Board of Health's insistence, emphasize to all lending institutions the desirability of a city sewerage disposal system.

It seems unanimously agreed that we need major improvements and additions to our water disposal system. It seems equally agreed that we need some sewerage disposal facilities. How much, depends on the cost and how often it will be allowed to pay for installation and operation.

Belle Glade's average citizen, we believe, will favor a system if he is able to pay, and he is shown that the charges are justified and equally distributed.

The installation of a sewerage disposal system will add to the value of all real estate in the community.

Let's let the family which owns a $4,000 home with one bath and the man with a $10,000 home and one bath pay the cost for the use of the facilities - say $2.50 or $3.00. In addition, each family pays on the value of his property, the ten thousand dollar owner paying 2 1/2 times as much as the four thousand dollar owner.

Every vacant lot in town would pay a proportion; every business would pay, according to value, in addition to the service charge.

Then, each would pay in accordance with his benefit! Folks who buy bonds want the interest when it is due, and want the principal as it is promised. They're smart enough to know that when the debt is equitably divided, among those able to pay, based on benefits, they are less likely to find interest and principal in default.

Let's not mortgage the front 30 of the homesteaded, with the back 100 left without even an ally leading to it - let's not mortgage the water without provision for some sewerage disposal plant financing.

If all real estate is helped by a sewerage disposal system, then it follows that ALL real estate should help pay for it. Those who use the facilities should pay in proportion to the use made of it.

We are told that the most successful financing of sewerage disposal systems have included the water department. In the recommendations of the engineers and fiscal agent, we will get some sense from water, garbage and sewerage mortgage as well as the general revenue of the city involved with a "closed line" feature - that means all we got is mortgaged.

We now have two obligations with both water revenue and general revenue mortgage, because we have in the past 15 years, several times, improved and added to our water works for "twenty years in the future," through bonds.

We have before involved our overall earning capacity in mortgages and now find that we have greatly increased assets and needs for added improvements.

So, when we unwrap ourselves this time, it's benefit by past experience, and take advantage of our financing potential.

Many families will find it hard to pay 50c more on the water bill, a dollar on the garbage bill and four fifty on the sewerage for one bath room.

YOU TELL 'EM

Two days spent in the Capitol Building in Tallahassee in the last few days of the biennial legislative meet interviewing Cabinet members, Senators and Legislators makes you wonder why sensible men aspire to those public offices.

It seems that everybody wants "economy," when it's practiced on the other fellow - everybody wants increased appropriations without increased taxes on the business or profession close to them.

There are some real lobbyists in Tallahassee, and they're not all representing "big business," horse tracks and the labor unions. If you don't think the state associations of county officers, sheriffs, tax assessors, clerks, judges, etc. - school teachers, attorneys, grocers, and from water, garbage and sewerage, with organization and strength, you're shore wrong!

Speaking of our education fees, they're proposing programs too. The pitiful thing about it is, that everybody wants to give the kids schoolhouses and facilities and everyone wants to pay the teachers a proper wage, but none in the hands of a school lobby is just as insidious with paid organizers and promoters as most of the others.

Enthusiasts - and they include senators and members of the House - want to spend the money to give each of two state universities, Tallahassee and Gainesville, an atomic plant of facilities.

There's no argument against a lady atomic specialist nor is there any argument against a man becoming an expert, but why split the money and make a half efficient curriculum at two places?

If this system keeps on pigs will interfere with the ladies going to classes in Tallahassee, and home ec students will be cluttering the corridors in Gainesville.

An infinitesimal group will object but most all want whatever taxes it takes to give our school children facilities and to pay their teachers salaries more compatible with their services, if they know the money is going for that, and not be spent to satisfy politicians.

"Grass-root opinions" are a great aid to law makers, and they welcome those, for they are honest, but the paid organizer, "delegate," or phony, they're an abomination to the lawmaker and more often than not put the wage-earner in the wrong light.

Give your public office holder the benefit of your ideas, he appreciates them, and he needs them if he is doing an honest job, which most of them are trying to do.

Representative Roberts tells us by phone that voters will have an opportunity to decide whether to abolish the JP system or not in the fall of '58.

Avenue E Plans Given To County Bureau Says Assistant Engineer Frost

Right of way maps for improvements on Avenue E are now in the office of the board of county commissioners according to an announcement made May 24 by G. R. Frost, assistant county engineer.

Frost made the announcement in a letter to The Herald which said:

"In accordance with your verbal request of May 21, 1957, please be advised that the preliminary right of way maps for this project (Avenue E) are now in this office.

"In addition, our Right of Way Department is at present making title searches of the property effected.

Early this week City Manager Clarence Robinson said he was waiting for State Road Department officials to finish with the maps in order that they could consult engineers, Russell and Axon of Daytona Beach can prepare a location for certain water mains on that avenue.

Robinson said $30,000 was set aside for this project when the maps are available to the city from bonds which are in the process of being validated.

"I don't know where to put the main water line, but the street is going," Robinson said.

White Hearing At South Bay Delayed

The case of Andrew J. White versus the city of South Bay went on another merry-go-round when Judge W. L. Wheeler, South Bay city councilman, postponed the hearing until he could get a legal explanation of what was going on.

White's attorney, Thomas L. Bailey, West Palm Beach, moved first to quash the charges against his client on two points:

1) the charge as drawn, Bailey said, didn't state a violation of law, 2) the charge was not sworn to in such a manner to have the man tried.

Before making a plea, Bailey moved to quash the charges on the validity of White's being arrested. Wheeler then called for a qualification of the move when he questioned the legality of it.

The city attorney for South Bay, Claude Jones, had not been asked to appear in the hearing and could not be reached; therefore, Wheeler postponed the hearing until June 7 to find out what Bailey had said could be done.

Wheeler was appointed by Mayor F. W. Kelley after Kelley had disqualified himself to hear the case.

At the South Bay council meeting May 27, Attorney Jones asked to be present at the hearing to prosecute the case for the city and requested that the council give him that authority.

S. J. Fisher made the motion, but it died for lack of a second. A motion was then made and carried to appoint councilman Henry Elfers to employ counsel for the city to prosecute White.

Elfers told The Herald this week that he had not yet obtained the services of an attorney.

Fair Board Gets Land Near Prison Farm In Swap By County Solons

Arrangements for a swap of land which will give Palm Beach County a 100-acre tract of county fair site off SR 80 near the prison farm were completed Monday by the board of county commissioners.

The 100-acre tract of land will be decided to the fair board in return for property which the fair board holds on Prince Memorial Park. The land at the county park has been set aside as a possible site for a four-acre state university.

The swap of land means that the county has been asked to replace improvements on the park on the new site. The fair board is also seeking some $25,000 for other fairground improvements.

V.F.W. 8181 Will Send One Scout To June Camp

Gene Duncan, assistant counselor for the county juvenile court, was guest speaker at the Tuesday night meeting and potluck supper of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8181 here at the American Legion hall.

Duncan briefly described the work of the juvenile aid division in the Glades and county wide activities. He also told of his work with Boy Scout Troop 14, and of how donations from clubs and individuals sent boys to summer camp in June.

Commander Art Puck sought approval of funds from the V.F.W. to send one boy to summer camp. The cost of sending one scout is $20, Duncan explained.

The V.F.W. is one of the first clubs in the area to announce their intentions to provide funds for this purpose.

Members of Troop 14 reside both in the Glades and on the east coast of the county.

Legion Baseball Schedule Is Set

Schedule for the American Legion Junior Baseball team were set at the Ninth District meeting May 27 at the West Palm Beach American Legion home Post 12, according to Jack McCaskill, manager of the Post 20 team here.

McCaskill said all games will be played on Sundays and Wednesdays, and that home games would be played at 3 p. m. This schedule will go into effect provided the necessary personnel can be found to supervise the team.

Boys who wish to play on the team should contact the V.F.W. born after September 1, 1939. Those boys from Belle Glade, Pahokee, South Bay, Beach City and Central Point may join the local team.

In the heart of the fabulous Florida Everglades where fresh winter vegetables for the whole nation can grow. Investigate our possibilities.

Price $3.00 a Year—10c a Copy

"We're the largest county in the state with two most substantial, basic economies - agriculture with an annual income of $43 1/2 million and tourism with $15 million and there is a third, small industry, to round out a twelve month payroll which demands attention."

These are the words of the late E. D. Stump, told a group of RDB committeemen Wednesday night at the Belle Glade Coffee Shop.

Stump told of his arrival in the county in the early twenties as editor of the Times, and of his eighteen years as secretary of the West Palm Beach Chamber, where he, as a farmer boy, came to appreciate the importance of agriculture to the county and the possibilities of its back country.

"Our papers, the Post and Times, support the RDB not only editorially, but financially, because we know what it has done and is capable of doing," Stump said.

Stump told of the organization of the RDB in '43 as a vehicle to promote a five-item program: 1) workable industry, 2) sound agriculture, 3) flood control, 4) tourism 5) beach erosion. The first year's operation was aided by county funds.

Stump said which RDB is helped by the county, private donations and subscriptions have been the source of revenue with each community having equal representation on the board.

Green Acres and South Bay have as much representation as West Palm Beach, he said.

RDB's county-wide in its make-up and county-wide in its efforts, as witness its efforts in agriculture; we have had major success in the water resources - flood control; and we have made substantial progress on beach erosion, industry, and I mean, as witness the RDB's resources that we pick, now needs your attention," he said.

"We have made progress along all these lines, but there is still more room for more of the type we want."

Harold Zumpf, membership chairman for the Glades committee of the RDB introduced Bernie Benzel of Loxahatchee, who presented the speaker, Mr. Stump.

Others pointed out the responsibilities which RDB is helping the legislative halls of Tallahassee and Washington and the dependence put in representation by the county organization.

Cards of prospects were distributed to the members present in the course of the evening. Bay business houses will be given an opportunity to join the RDB within the next few days.

In the course of the evening Lamar Allen, of the RDB, pointed out that in a recent survey by reliable authority, "there are 85,000 acres of land wanted to sell the present home in order to get a better one or a larger one."

Emmett says . . .

Weekly Legislative Report wired by
Rep. EMMETT S. ROBERTS

This report is being written while the House of Representatives is in session on Tuesday, May 28. When you read this regular sixty-day session of the Legislature will have ended and as yet no decision has been made on the session.

I cannot see how, in the few remaining days, constitutional revision, tax matters, as well as bills remaining on the calendar, can be properly discussed in this short time.

This Legislature has been in session for a turmoil, working hard and long hours. However, there is some question in my mind as to how many of our accomplishments will prove worthwhile. The worthwhile accomplishments will no doubt be as a result of any new tax measures voted; as it is natural for people to remember only those measures that affect their pocketbooks.

To date, the Palm Beach County delegation has introduced and passed approximately ninety bills; the majority of course, being local in nature. The big problem facing the Legislature in these closing days is how to meet the tremendous appropriations previously voted. It is my thought at this time that a special session is a foregone conclusion.

For our county, we are particularly proud of the Junior College bill providing over $750,000 for new buildings, as well as an appropriation for planning of the new University at Boca Raton. To our knowledge, no one is presenting any other state institutions in Palm Beach County, such as the experimental station, Glades prison farm, Everglades fire control unit, have fared very well.

The Legislature, in trying to consider over 3,000 bills in sixty days, faces an almost hopeless task of giving proper consideration to each and every one introduced. I think some day in the future will see the Legislature meeting not less than ninety days, and even holding an annual session.

America's new highway program

Just getting underway, will include a 41,000-mile network of two-lane, four-lane, and six-lane and even eight-lane expressways connecting 200 major cities.

This road program—which will eventually cost $100 billion—is bigger than 60 Panama Canals and bigger, too, than 15 TVA projects. More earth will be moved than in building all the big dams in the country.

It will take time. The Panama Canal took 15 years to build. This tremendous highway program will take 14 years.

There's a lot of work to be done. First, plans must be formulated and approved in the various states. Routes surveyed, land acquired and contracts let.

Whether you drive 5000 miles a year or 50,000, you stand to gain enormously by the new roads.

If you're an average car owner you save at least 300 hours a year in driving time—much of it dragging along in traffic lanes.

You'll get better gasoline mileage, longer wear on your tires. Your car will last longer—need fewer repairs.

And most important of all, you and your family will run fewer chances of accidents.

It's estimated that these new highways will save as many as 3500 lives a year.

H. S. Grads May Receive Flight Training in Navy

Beginning July 1st, Navy recruits may be selected to receive flight training as Naval Aviation Cadets, Chief B. A. Werner of the West Palm Beach Navy Recruiting Station announced today.

Chief Werner commented, "this is the best career opportunity offered to jet-minded high school graduates I've seen yet".

The program is an addition to the present High School Graduate Training now offered, and will enable a high school graduate the chance to earn a commission and become a Naval Aviator. Chief Werner explained that up to now, only those college men with 80 semester hours or more of credit could apply for flight training in the Navy. Starting in July, however, the high school graduate can enlist in the Graduate Training Program and qualify for flight training as a NavCad.

Under the new program, there are five specialties into which young men may enlist. These are Electronics, Aviation, General Service, the Hospital Field and the Nuclear Field. Enlistment in any of these fields makes a high school graduate automatically eligible for flight training.

Details of this program are available at the Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, West Palm Beach or telephone TEmple 2-2296.

Custard Apple Days

By
LAWRENCE E. (Okeelanta) WILLY

For the information of you Johnny-Come-Latelys who have never seen such a tree, our lesson for today will be on Custard Apples. And parenthetically, may I remark, that you may have seen the cypress swamps of Fishing Creek, the tall pines on the spreading oaks of Turnbull Hammock, but if you Ocala or have never rambled under the vine covered custard apples of Lake Okeechobee, you ain't seen any piece of woods yet.

The first settlers on the lake found its southeastern shores bordered with a dense growth of a peculiar tropical tree. This forest followed the shore line for about 35 miles, beginning at Sand Point (Clewiston) and tapering off to nothing about Sand Cut near Port Mayaca and averaging more than a mile from the lake. At South Bay it ended exactly one mile from the lake shore. From there northward to Bacom's Point it approximated two miles in depth with a tongue at Belle Glade extending to east of the present city limits, a good two and a half miles from the lake shore. I must have been pretty wide in Clewiston, too, for I was lost in the woods there all one cold and cloudy morning until able to find a cypress tree that could be climbed. Beyond the belt of custard apples was often a narrow border of oaks or willows, and beyond that stretch only the limitless expanse of sawgrass.

After the drainage operations had lowered the water and the lake shore ridge was no longer inundated, the trees became covered with a luxuriant and unbroken canopy of moonvines.

spangled by night and on cloudy days with white morning-glory blossoms.

The tree itself, a denizen of marshy muck land, gnarled and shapeless, and braced by buttressing roots, withdrew upward to a height of 20 to 30 feet, supporting an umbrella of glossy green oval leaves. Its dark green fruit, yellowish when ripe, and three or four inches long, resembled a small mango, the shiny skin of which was distinguished by innumerable flattened surfaces reminiscent of hand hammered brass. This fruit consisted mostly of seeds imbedded in a pulpy meat, yellow and soft, and with a sweet, persimmon-like tang. Although it could be made into jelly, it was not generally regarded as being edible, which fact, considering its botanical connections, is peculiar. The custard apple, sometimes called pond apple, and scientifically Annona Glabra, is a member of a family noted for its tasty fruit, as for example, the sugar apple (anona squamosa), sweet sop, sour sop, bullock's heart, and particularly the cherimoya (anona cherimola), which was pronounced by Mark Twain as being "deliciousness itself".

The thick outer petals of its flowers were crested and adorned and surrounded small, narrow inner petals whitish outside but blood red within.

The wood had no commercial value, being too soft and brittle as well as crooked, but it was very light in weight. It was not even much good for firewood which reluctance to burning, no doubt, was the reason there had never been a forest fire. The roots were spongy, very difficult to cut with an ax, and were as light as cork.

Despite the fact that the original custard apple swamp is estimated to have covered no less than 30,000 acres of lake shore and islands, it was long ago exterminated, only half a dozen stunted specimens, scraggly and discouraged, now remaining. This great forest undoubtedly was begun by the state's drainage operations when canals lowered the waters of Lake Okeechobee. All aquatic trees have a tolerance of a certain average water table, which in many cases is limited to a rise or fall of only inches. The high muck ridge, which before drainage was normally inundated and always moist, seemed to be peculiarly agreeable to the growth of the custard apple. After the lake was lowered this ridge became permanently dry to the extent that the ground yawned with gaping cracks, often three to five feet in depth. And, too, the smothering effect of the moonvines, no doubt, had its deleterious effect by intercepting the sunlight. The trees might have died eventually, but their end was expedited by the surging influx of settlers which began in 1916-17. Most of these people were squatters, some of whom owned land inaccessible in the sawgrass wastes, but all were looking for a spot which they might rent and farm. The high lake ridge, as contrasted to the undeveloped part of the sawgrass country, produced vegetables phenomenal in size and with the aid of tractors, the trees were leveled, piled in rows, and when the ground was wet, burned. The destruction was completed in the hurricane of 1928, when the winds and water-borne debris from the broken dikes unrooted most of the trees then remaining.

Although some have complained of a depressing sense of confinement, yet to me there was a peculiar fascination in traveling through this remarkable vine-covered forest, zig-zagging between outreaching roots and under branches, low, crooked and meeting overhead beneath their moonvines covering, the double thatched canopy, making twilight of midday. One might actually walk for miles and hardly glimpse the sky. Due to this dense cover the undergrowth was confined almost exclusively to ferns, from midgests nestled between angles of tree roots, to brown backed glass unforlorn in Doric volutes head high to their parabolic loops hung mottled green globes like ornaments on a Christmas tree, while perpetually hindering progress were black and yellow spiders. Relieving the perennial greens of leaf and vine, the gaudy red and yellow airplanes added a splash of color. Action there was, too. Flying squirrels soared from limb to limb, while gorgeous painted buntings flitted gracefully in the gloom, but the silence was broken only by the lone-some screech of some sentinel hawk.

Although the trees grew quite close together, travel for the most part was not difficult, yet one might encounter barricades of wind-felled trees whose intertwined branches, bound by vines, and laced with unbreakable spiderwebs, effectively prohibited further progress. The monotony of the endless custard apple growth was now and then interrupted by a scraggly buttonwood, a sprangly pop ash or a centipede-rooted rubber tree and occasionally by a lofty cypress rearing its head above the swamp, a landmark for the boatman in the uncharted lake. Exploring this shadowed domain, so silent, so peaceful, so exotic and so mysterious, was an experience never to be forgotten and one which now can never again be duplicated.

From Our EARLY TIMES

One Year Ago

Claude L. Shirley of Pahokee was elected chairman and Alvin Crow of South Bay secretary of the Glades committee of the Palm Beach Resources Development Board this week.

Five Years Ago

Brown's Farm is no longer operating as a farming unit. The farm retired from vegetable production in favor of smaller ownership as well as changes to ramie, kenaf and beef operations.

Dr. R. V. Allison of the Everglades Experiment Station left the first of the week for the Philippine Islands to study ramie and kenaf there.

Rites Held For Former Resident

Last rites for Mrs. Lillie J. Redmer, 83, of 116 N. Davis Rd., Lake Worth, who died last Thursday following an extended illness at her home, were held Monday a. m. at E. Earl Smith and Son Funeral Home with the Rev. W. A. Kimberly, pastor of Our Saviour Lutheran Church, Lake Worth officiating. Burial was in Pinecrest Cemetery.

A native of Detroit, Mrs. Redmer came to Lake Worth in 1924 and moved to Belle Glade in 1935, where she lived until 1956.

She and her husband, Charles L. Redmer returned to Lake Worth to live last year and celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary on April 18, 1957. She was a member of our Saviour Lutheran Church.

She was a sister of the late C. E. Riedel of this city and is survived by two nephews here, Harold E. and Victor W. Riedel. Other survivors include her husband, Charles Riedel; two daughters, Mrs. Lydia Hoyland, Lake Worth, and Mrs. Vera Smith, Williamsport, Pa.; three sons, Edward of Elmhurst, Ill., Carl of Willow Grove, Pa., and Clarence of Ardley, Pa.; two sisters in the north and 11 grandchildren.

Your Library

"You often think you would like to listen to some famous lecture, but you can go to your Public Library and bring home without cost all the important things which that man ever said, or thought. It is almost as if your local banker said to you 'Come and get without interest all the money you will use properly. All I ask is that you return this money to the bank in a reasonable time.' Yet a better offer is being made to you by your local librarian." — Roger Babson.

This week two volumes have been added to the Made Simple Self Teaching Library—"Every Day Law" by Jack Last, L.L.M. This book is intended to help you in legal well-being, to make you aware of your legal rights and responsibilities in everyday life, and to recognize the situation when you should seek professional help.

Physics by Ira M. Freeman, Ph.D., is a book intended to be a simple first introduction to the subject of physics. As such it can serve in several ways and could be much help to the high school student.

The Fruit Tramp by Vinnie Williams is a book which should be interesting and appeal to persons living in this area and is suggested by our librarian, Mrs. Bettie Harris, as even more similar to happenings that are a part of the Glades. The author, a former social welfare worker for the Florida State Welfare Board in the Lake Okeechobee area tells a touching story woven around the lives of migrant workers. It is fiction but are happenings that confront our migrant workers every day, it also has its romantic side and is recommended to everyone.

Stay Alive All of Your Life is a book that everyone should read. According to the author, Norman Vincent Peale, the former book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," in emphasizing how to achieve well-being, enthusiasm and new vitality. "I hope those who received help from the first volume will find in these pages further guidance toward a more dynamic and creative life," the author says. So now you can put the attitudes of positive thinking into action in your life, and through the power of faith achieve goals that are nearest to your heart.

15,800 a year ago. (Editor's Note: This year there were approximately 40,000 acres planted in the Glades spring crop.)

A near riot occurred at the American Legion hall during this week's wrestling matches. "Boom Boom Pentazi got Al Ritchey down on the mat and was abusing (7) him and was giving him rough stuff so heavy, that N. B. Wells jumped into the ring and made protest. This was the signal for the spectators to take a hand and a hot melee ensued and ended with some cackled heads and wrecked furniture."

Fifteen Years Ago

Actual work on the local 42-acre golf course was started this week and plans are being made to lay out the holes within the next two weeks.

Defense classes will be held and members will be notified as to what time and place their classes will be held. Organizational meeting held at high school.

CONGRATULATIONS . . . .

We share your pride on this occasion and wish you good health and good fortune. May each day be a forward step toward the fulfillment of your dreams.

Remember that the Future is simply a long parade of consequences . . . your everyday actions set the pattern for your tomorrows . . . and the future can largely be shaped to your own personal specifications.

But . . . youth has no monopoly on this privilege to make, in a general way, our own future. For as long as we have any future left, there are ways open to us to make it happier, more satisfying, more prosperous.

And one of the simplest foundations we can lay for a brighter personal ECONOMIC FUTURE is to make ourselves better partners in our home community enterprise.

For it is how well we SERVE . . . and how well we PATRONIZE each other here . . . that determines this community's economic Future . . . and OURS with it.

Modern Store Scheduled To Replace Nick's Bar

One of the oldest buildings in town has been moved from Avenue A and restored on 9th Street here to be used as a rooming house according to former owner N. C. Jones. Workmen completed the move early this week when the building at 62 W. Ave. A. was sold to N. D. Lloyd. The building had been a part of Nick's Bar and Package Store until it was ordered moved by the city of Belle Glade.

house operated by Ernest Stallings. Jones bought the building soon after and in addition to cash, gave Stallings the old Cotton Club building. Jones said the building was partially destroyed in the 1928 hurricane; however, it was restored to its foundation and repaired. The original upstairs of 11 rooms will still be used; however, the bottom part of the building was razed this week.

Mother Of Five Charged With Neglect By J.A.D. Officer Duncan Here

A complaint lodged with juvenile counselor Gene Duncan this week charges that five children ranging in ages from one to five years are being grossly neglected by their parents here. Duncan stated that the children live in a trailer west of Belle Glade and that those persons making the complaints said the children have been left alone for as much as an entire day, they are not being fed at regular intervals and when fed, the meals are inadequate.

On at least one occasion the mother was observed fleeing while her baby cried for two hours without receiving attention. The youngest child is now reported to be in Belle Glade Memorial Hospital suffering from pneumonia, malnutrition and diarrhea. The mother will answer charges against her next Monday before Juvenile Court Judge Richard P. Robbins at West Palm Beach.

What Is A Senior?

By Dick Harvey

Somewhere between the last formal dance of school and the latter part of June there lies a small, but highly vibrant group of bright-eyed individuals known as seniors. Seniors can be found wandering into classes late, strolling down the corridor with "that special person" or day-dreaming in the middle of a sociology class, but one can always find them more than eager to grow up.

On one in our entire society is more apt to start a world-shattering project one day only to end up sipping a strawberry soda the next. No one can ask more baffling, confusing and utterly embarrassing questions of their elders than seniors. Seniors like to entertain, dancing, good pop music, swimming parties, kid day, blind dates, class night, weekends, recesses, and so on.

They're not much for homework assignments, term papers, curfews, expensive dates, books in general and teachers.

Nobody but a senior girl can cram into one sentence, a word about that certain party, a good movie title, what they did last night, a recipe, the other girl's dress and a four-year college plan.

Not only but a senior boy can cram into one verbal expression, the proper way to plow, science fiction, last night's T.V., what's wrong with the government, how to fix that motor and which armed service is best.

Hope for the future guides them, freshmen admire them, little brothers hate them and God protects them. So, you might as well give in.

They're the hope of the future driving a hot rod. They're the backbone of the country listening to Elvis. They're the only promise of mankind with pizza to nourish them.

Armed with knowledge learned in school and the advice of parents and friends, they're freed from the bondage of school in classrooms only to enter the school of experience.

Before they go, just let them know that unlike school, Mother Nature gives the examination before the lesson.

What is a senior? Perhaps one might best say, in spite of themselves, they're pretty special people, and we love them.

JOB AND WORKER

Secondary Details . . . Once he decision is made, the rest is easy although some care is necessary in planning from that time forward. First, there is the matter of academic credits necessary for admission to a college or university. Secondly, here is the matter of arranging for money should your family not be in a position to send you to college. A job must be obtained and a savings account opened. If you get a bank account of $300.00, you can make the grade. Thirdly, once your senior year has begun, you will have to go to work to prepare rough hard study for your first year at a college or university. In January of your senior year letters must be written to universities and colleges to make arrangements for admission, lodging, a job, and the following summer will find you working again and saving every nickel and dime for the beginning of your higher learning adventure.

Blame Yourself — Not Money The point of all this is to make every Junior realize that lack of money is not an excuse for failure to go to college. Lack of interest, to be sure; lack of ability, certainly; lack of high school credits, of course; but to say that you cannot go to college because your parents cannot afford to send you, is like saying you can't cross the street because you don't own an automobile.

Make Decision Known . . . Now is the time for your decision to be made. Don't worry now about what college you will enter, what profession you may choose, what it will cost, or what sacrifices you may have to make. The only factor to be considered at this time is whether you will or will not go to college.

Ten Year Old Sentenced To PB Children's Home

A ten-year-old Belle Glade youth has been committed to the Palm Beach County Children's Home after being convicted in Juvenile Court by Judge Richard P. Robbins.

Gene Duncan, juvenile counselor for the Glades, said the boy has an older brother serving at Marjanna for breaking and entering. The mother of the boy, Duncan said, is now being held in jail as an accessory to the fact for a recent breaking and entering here.

The youth's other relatives are living in various other cities.
